STORYSELLER SYSTEMS

Ads + Organic Content Direction

How to move from isolated ads to a creative learning system.

Prepared May 26, 2026

Meeting Deck

THE REAL PROBLEM

Meta finds the easy buyers first.

Warm buyers
Already close to the pain and easier to convert.

Colder audiences
Need stronger emotional recognition before they care.

Weak creative
Breaks when the system has to persuade broader buyers.

Reframe: the platform may not be the main issue.

WHAT WEAK ADS DO

They explain the system too early.

Feature-first lines

- "We build dashboards"
- "We automate reports"
- "We connect your data"
- Long lists before the pain is clear

What happens

The viewer understands the product before they feel why it matters. That is too much thinking friction for a cold audience.

Features matter after the buyer feels the cost of the problem.

WHAT STRONG ADS DO

They start with a painful business realization.

"Month 5 pa lang, ubos na pala margin mo."

"You closed a 50M project, but spent 70M delivering it."

"You are losing money every day you cannot see real costs."

Emotion here means recognition, urgency, and relief.

RESEARCH SUPPORT

Creative quality and emotion affect performance.

32%

Kantar reports that moving creative quality from average to best can increase ROI.

Engagement

Emotional and cognitive engagement predicts impact better than simple attention alone.

Early intrigue

Digital ads need a reason to keep watching in the first few seconds.

Sources: Kantar creative effectiveness and digital emotion research

STORYSELLER DATA

The clearest construction ad performed best.

AD	COST / CONVERSATION	3S TO 75% HOLD
Construction Project Cost Overruns	PHP 8.17	20.4%
The PHP 20M Mistake	PHP 14.94	12.0%
Save Millions	PHP 18.23	7.6%
Demo Style - May 2026	PHP 42.49	3.3%

Winner: specific pain, fast recognition, clear system payoff.

STRATEGIC SHIFT

We are not just testing ads. We are testing buyer wounds.

1
Test 4-6 themes.

2
Build 2-3 variants per theme.

3
Measure cost, hold, CTR, and lead quality.

4
Scale variations inside winners.

The question is which pain Meta can find repeatedly at scale.

META SIGNAL PROBLEM

We may not be giving Meta enough useful data.

What this means

If Meta receives similar ads, soft engagement signals, and unclear lead-quality feedback, it learns from the wrong pattern. The system may find people who click or message, but not the operators we actually want.

1. Creative is a targeting signal
   If the ads look and sound similar, Meta keeps fishing in the same audience pool.

2. Volume is not diversity
   More versions of the same ad do not give Meta new learning.

3. Lead quality must feed back
   We need sales tags so Meta and the team know which themes create qualified conversations.

Based on video takeaways: creative diversity, testing spend, research, and CPA/lead quality.

CREATIVE PSYCHOLOGY

Brief ads by the buyer's mental state, not just funnel stage.

Trigger → Exploration → Evaluation → Purchase

Likely gap

Storyseller may be over-indexing on evaluation and purchase: dashboards, systems, demos, and CTAs.

Needed shift

Build more trigger and exploration creative: the moment an owner realizes late reports, hidden costs, or ERP complexity are costing money.

The creative should meet the buyer where they are mentally.

THEMES TO TEST

Four ad themes for the next sprint.

Too-Late Cost Realization
"A project can look on track and still be quietly losing millions."

ERP Regret / Heavy Systems
"You paid for an ERP, but your team still waits for Excel reports."

Hidden Leakage
"Small inventory and expense leaks become monthly losses."

Owner Anxiety / Blind Operator
"The business is growing, but your visibility is not."

Each theme acts as a different audience signal.

AD FORMAT RECOMMENDATION

Move beyond talking-head problem/solution ads.

Current risk

If most ads are the same speaker format, Meta may treat them as similar signals. The account gets more volume, but not enough creative diversity.

Recommended shift

Keep talking heads, but make them only one format in a broader creative mix: skits, demos, statics, founder POV, proof, and screen-led walkthroughs.

Goal: different formats for different buyer mental states.

FORMATS TO TEST

Give Meta more distinct creative signals.

Skit
Show the owner signing reports, then realizing the numbers were wrong.

Static
CEO dashboard concept: one sharp visual of what leaders wish they could see daily.

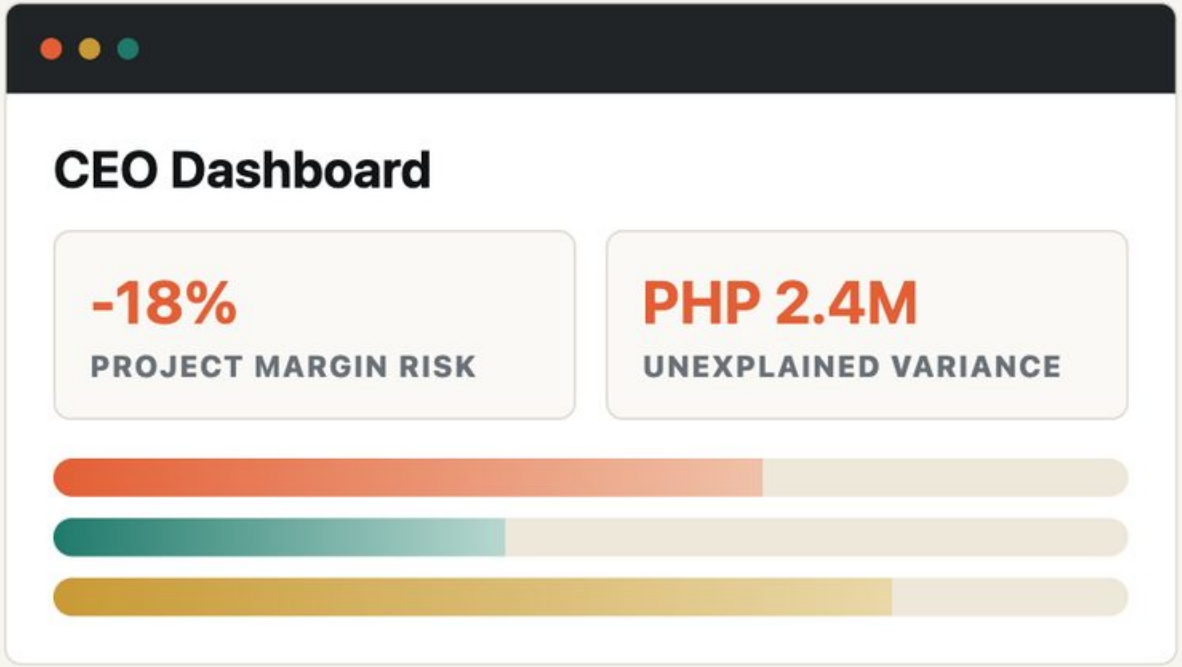

Screen Demo
Show a formula being deleted, restored, or flagged by the system.

Proof Story
Use anonymized numbers: 50M contract, 70M spend, margin gone.

Diversity means different formats, situations, visuals, and emotional jobs.

STATIC CREATIVE IDEA

CEO Dashboard: make the desired outcome visible.

Static angle

"If you opened one dashboard every morning, what should it warn you about?"

- Branch or project margin risk
- Cash, payroll, or petty cash anomalies
- Inventory movement and shrinkage
- Late reports before they become losses

This tests aspirational clarity, not just fear-based pain.

SUGGESTED AD MIX

Next sprint: 12 creatives, 4 formats.

3 Skits
Owner experience, staff workflow, report-signing mistake.

3 Statics
CEO dashboard, project risk, spreadsheet formula warning.

3 Demos
Formula restore, BOQ vs actual, live dashboard warning.

3 Talking Heads
Founder POV, client story, objection handling.

Measure by qualified conversations, not only cheap messages or hook rate.

TIKTOK ADS OPPORTUNITY

TikTok can be a fresh market test, not just another placement.

Why test it
Our organic content has already performed well on TikTok, which suggests the platform can understand and distribute Storyseller-style operational risk content.

Why it matters
TikTok has a different algorithm and content culture. The same buyer may discover us there through education, warning content, skits, or demos instead of Meta-style lead ads.

Opportunity: new audience pool, new algorithm, fresh creative learning.

TIKTOK TEST PLAN

Launch our best Meta concepts on TikTok and compare audience quality.

Start with proven themes

- Google Sheets formula risk
- Late project cost realization
- CEO dashboard clarity
- Hidden leakage in petty cash, payroll, or inventory

Adapt the format

- Shorter hooks
- More native skits
- Screen-recorded demos
- Founder POV with less polish

Question to answer: does TikTok find a different, better-fit audience?

ORGANIC BRIDGE

Organic should feed paid.

Formats

- Founder POV
- Client story
- Educational breakdown
- Contrarian take
- Behind-the-system walkthrough

KPI shift

Reach is not enough. Look for comments, DMs, saves, shares, and hooks worth turning into ads.

Organic reveals market language. Paid amplifies the strongest themes.

ORGANIC WINNER ANALYSIS

The Google Sheets formula script worked because it made the risk concrete.

Why it held attention

- It starts with a common behavior: using Excel or Google Sheets.
- It introduces a sharp threat: formulas can be changed without owners noticing.
- It shows a specific fraud/error mechanism: petty cash or payroll totals.
- It demonstrates the fix visually: deleted formula returns automatically.

Why it fits Storyseller

It does not sell a dashboard first. It surfaces a trigger moment: "My numbers may be wrong and I would not know." Then it resolves the fear with a practical system.

Organic lesson: lead with a hidden operational risk people can immediately picture.

MEETING DECISIONS

Decisions to align on today.

1. Which vertical gets the next 30-day sprint?
2. What counts as a qualified conversation?
3. Can sales tag lead quality by theme?
4. How many ad variations can we produce weekly?
5. Which proof points can be used publicly or anonymized?

End with operational clarity: theme, measurement, cadence, proof.